UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
OAKLAND DIVISION

IN RE: SOCIAL MEDIA ADOLESCENT
ADDICTION/PERSONAL INJURY PRODUCTS
LIABILITY LITIGATION

THIS DOCUMENT RELATES TO:

State of Montana, ex. rel. Austin Knudsen v. Meta Platforms, Inc.

MDL No. 3047

Case Nos. 4:22-md-03047-YGR-PHK

4:24-cv-00805-YGR

META DEFENDANTS' NOTICE
REGARDING MONTANA ACTION PROCEDURES

Judge: Hon. Yvonne Gonzalez Rogers
Magistrate Judge: Hon. Peter H. Kang

1 Pursuant to Case Management Order No. 18 (ECF 1290), the Meta Defendants file this position
2 statement regarding the appropriate procedure for addressing Montana’s Complaint in light of the Court’s
3 order granting in part and denying in part Meta’s motion to dismiss the other States’ complaints (ECF 4 1214).

5 Meta is mindful that the Court has many pending matters in this complicated case, and Meta is
6 committed to not relitigating anything the Court has decided or wasting the Court’s time or resources (as
7 demonstrated, for instance, by Meta’s motion-to-dismiss briefing not seeking to relitigate the Court’s prior
8 Section 230 rulings when they addressed the same features the States challenged, see, e.g., ECF 662 at 12
9 n.13 (“Meta recognizes that the Court previously ruled that claims based on appearance-altering filters
10 and the lack of options to self-restrict time are not barred by Section 230 or the First Amendment. While
11 Meta respectfully disagrees with those rulings, and preserves its arguments as applied to the States’ claims,
12 Meta does not seek to relitigate those rulings here.” (citation omitted))).

13 While there is some overlap with other complaints, the Montana Complaint also asserts claims,
14 makes allegations, and raises issues that are distinct from those in the other States’ complaints, and
15 therefore are not all addressed by the holdings or reasoning of the Court’s order on Meta’s motion to 16 dismiss those complaints. Meta submits that Montana lacks personal jurisdiction over it and that COPPA
17 venue is improper in Montana—issues not addressed by the Court’s order. Meta would therefore need to 18 raise those issues in a separate motion to dismiss, were they not otherwise resolved by the Court (and 19 given that Montana has not yet indicated whether it intends to waive Lexecon). For this reason, Meta
20 believes it would be most efficient to wait to commence any such briefing until after the Court has ruled
21 on Meta’s motion to dismiss Florida’s amended complaint on similar grounds, as that order may inform
22 the briefing. In addition, Montana brings a series of consumer protection claims arguing that Meta 23 misrepresents the amount of certain types of third-party content (such as that concerning alcohol and 24 drugs) and misrepresents that its apps deserve certain ratings (like the “T for Teen” rating) on app stores.
25 See, e.g., Mont. Compl. Count II (focusing on “Alcohol, Tobacco, and Drug references”), Count VII
26 (focusing on “T for Teen Age Rating”). Those are meaningfully different than the consumer protection
27 claims the Court ruled on from other States, which focus on the alleged “risks of addiction and mental 28

1 harms to minors from platform use” and “design, development, and deployment of certain product
2 features,” ECF 1214 at 2—raising distinct Section 230 concerns and 12(b)(6) issues.

3 Meta respectfully requests the opportunity to brief issues that have not yet been ruled on—and, to
4 reiterate, not to relitigate any issues the Court has already settled that would apply equally to the Montana
5 Complaint (while reserving all rights to its position on those issues). To accomplish this in the most
6 efficient manner, and conserve the Court’s resources, Meta suggests that it be permitted to file a 25-page
7 motion to dismiss the Montana Complaint (with Montana able to respond in kind, and Meta to receive 15
8 pages to reply), and that this briefing take place after the Court has ruled on Meta’s motion to dismiss
9 Florida’s amended complaint, which may provide the Parties guidance and further narrow the issues to be
10 litigated versus preserved. If the Court remains inclined to utilize an order to show cause, Meta
11 respectfully requests 25 pages to respond to that order in a substantive way.<sup>1</sup>

Respectfully submitted,

28 <sup>1</sup> Montana’s notice on this issue states that it sought to meet and confer and Meta did not respond. Montana filed that notice with the Court before Meta was able to provide Montana with its position.
